DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because Figures 1-6 are too small to view clearly. Applicant need to enlarge the drawings. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title such as "Clean Air Toilet System Tank or C.A.T.S-Tank". It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The innovative concept is," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc. and avoid to underline words and terms.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 1 is objected to as not being of proper claim syntax, which renders the claim indefinite and difficult to examine. Claim(s) must be begin with a capital letter and end with a period and nowhere else should periods be used. The claim should be carefully reviewed and revised such that each of the claimed elements has a proper antecedent basis and the necessary structural relationships between the elements are properly define. Many terms and words in the claim have been capitalized. Capitalizing terminology should be avoided and used when appropriate. Appropriate correction is required. Applicant may refer to cited US Patent references as examples of how claims are properly written.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 1 is rejected as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

The claim is narrative in form and replete with indefinite and functional or operational languages, such as, "Cleans the Odorous Air before it is released outside, thus protecting the exterior environment c) protects the C.A.T.S-Tank from clogging", "The distance between the Grille Air and Odor Filter will variable, depending on the toilet bowl and toilet seat type", "The Air Grille and Odor Air Filter is a novel element with a novel function and location", "The duct size has to be adequate to the function of circulating and carrying out the odor air", "The Odor Air Duct inside the water tank is a novel concept, location and function". These languages should be deleted. The structure which goes to make up the device must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. The claim must be in one sentence form only. Note the format of the claims in the patents cited.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Scott, III, Curiel and Eger teach a toilet ventilation system.
